

may i remember that i am we may we remember those who lived on this land before us may we resist the desire for growth at all costs may we imagine in solitude and in community, in silence and out loud may we create an educational system that respects the humanity of every child may we learn more and more and never be done may we treat ourselves tenderly but with rigorous honesty may we treat others with the understanding that we are interconnected may we move with vision, courage and the rhythms of our earth may we honor the resilience and joy of all those who have been treated unjustly may we acknowledge where we have fucked up may we connect with the more subtler ways of knowing and being georgia wall